CHATELAIN TO MARY QUEEN OF SCOTS

OR

WHEN NIGHTLY MY WILD HARP.

3

The handsome and accomplished Chatelain was one of the many ill-fated beings, who fell a sacrifice to the overpowering love-liness of the puerile Queen of Scots. He had originally accompanied her from France, in the suite of Marshall D'Angville; and having afterwards become her private secretary and confidant, he unfortunately conceived a violent and of course hopeless attachment for his beautiful mistress.

Words by MISS GRANFORD.

Music by GEORGE BARKER.

Andante.

PIANO

The piano introduction consists of two staves. The right hand plays a series of chords and single notes in a slow, steady rhythm. The left hand plays a continuous eighth-note accompaniment.

When nightly my wild harp I bring To

The vocal line begins with the lyrics "When nightly my wild harp I bring To". The piano accompaniment continues with the same eighth-note pattern in the left hand and chords in the right hand.

wake all its music for thee, So sweet looks that face as I

The vocal line continues with the lyrics "wake all its music for thee, So sweet looks that face as I". The piano accompaniment remains consistent with the previous section.
